

SPLTA has officially collaborated with MACEAS Germany in 2025. MACEAS is the global leader in leak testing domain by providing different solutions to the customers with different methods such as ultrasonic leak testing and helium leak testing. This collaboration will further jointly enhance our capability in providing leak testing solutions to our customers globally.

Benefits to our customers:

Exposure to German Technology: Germany widely known for advanced system, tools, precision engineering, innovation and industrial efficiency

Effective solutions with experienced solution provider: With over 30years of experience of our German counterpart, our customers will get an optimized solution with advanced leak detection technology

Feasibility study check: PFMEA design results with all feasibility checks beforehand.

High quality engineering with cost effective solution: Delivering technically superior, reliable, and efficient designs or products while optimizing resources and minimizing costs. We mainly focus on achieving maximum performance, durability, and safety without unnecessary expenditure — balancing innovation, efficiency, and economy.

Local service support: Our customers can reveal international level benefits with local on-site support for service and training.
